Day 15

Using java factory design pattern, solve the following:

- Consider a Garment Company which produces various types of garments like shirt, pant and jacket.
- The consumers can request for the required types of garments through the factory.
- However, from consumer's perspective they are completely unaware of who is creating this object.
- They just know that the Factory is providing them the required garments.

Factory Pattern Example